NEWLY INSCRIBED WORLD HERITAGE SITES

Papahanaumokuakea (United States) - mixed natural and cultural site

Report of the 34th Meeting of UNESCO's World Heritage Committee, Brasilia, Brazil July 25 - August 3, 2010

Prepared by Stephen Morris, Chief, Office of International Affairs, National Park Service

The World Heritage Committee, the 21-nation governing body of the 1972 UNESCO World Heritage Convention, held its 34th session in Brasilia, Brazil, July 25 - August 3. The United States is no longer a Committee member, having rotated off last year. Among the highlights from the U.S. perspective was the inscription of Papahanaumokuakea, a Marine National Monument in the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands, as the first U.S. site added to the World Heritage List in 15 years.

The U.S. Observer Delegation was led by the U.S. Ambassador to UNESCO David Killion. Other members of the delegation included representatives of the National Park Service, the Department of the Interior, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, the State of Hawaii and the U.S. State Department.

Meeting Statistics

The Committee reviewed over 20,000 pages of documents and made nearly 250 decisions. 21 new properties were inscribed on the World Heritage List. There are now 911 sites on the World Heritage List: 704 cultural sites, 181 natural sites, and 26 mixed sites. Of the 187 States Parties to the Convention, 151 now have properties on the list with three (Kiribati, Marshall Islands and Tajikistan) having a site inscribed for the first time. The Committee added four sites to the List of World Heritage in Danger, including Everglades National Park, and removed the Galapagos Islands (Ecuador) from this List, which now contains 34 sites.

Highlights of the Meeting

The inscription of Papahanaumokuakea as a mixed, cultural and natural site, marked the first U.S. site granted World Heritage status in 15 years.

OTHER NEWLY INSCRIBED CULTURAL SITES

Ngorongoro Conservation Area (Tanzania, already on the World Heritage List as a natural property Papahānaumokuākea is a vast and isolated linear cluster of small, low lying islands and atolls, with their surrounding ocean, roughly 250 km to the northwest of the main Hawaiian Archipelago and extending over some 1931 km. The area has deep cosmological and traditional significance for living Native Hawaiian culture, as an ancestral environment, as an embodiment of the Hawaiian concept of kinship between people and the natural world, and as the place where it is believed that life originates and to where the spirits return after death. On two of the islands, Nihoa and Makumanamana, there are archaeological remains relating to pre-European settlement and use. Much of the monument is made up of pelagic and deepwater habitats, with notable features such as seamounts and submerged banks, extensive coral reefs and lagoons. It is one of the largest marine protected areas in the world.

The site was inscribed by consensus with minimal discussion as it had received a strong recommendation from both of the Committee's Advisory Bodies, the International Union for the Conservation of Nature (IUCN) and the International Council on Monuments and Sites (ICOMOS).

Everglades National Park was re-added to the List of World Heritage in Danger, as requested by the United States. Although the Everglades was removed from the Danger List in 2007, Interior Secretary Salazar had requested that the U.S. work towards re-listing the park on the Danger List, reflecting the Administration's concerns over the health of the park's ecosystem. The Committee recommended that a joint World Heritage Centre/IUCN mission visit the park in late 2010 (likely November) to help NPS develop a "Desired State of Conservation" along with appropriate indicators to be used to gauge progress in the Everglades restoration efforts and ultimately remove the park from the Danger List. The Advisory Bodies, World Heritage Centre and even many Committee members praised the U.S. for this request, and the U.S. emphasized its hope that the move would help change the perception of the Danger List from a sanction to that of a positive tool intended to galvanize international attention and support.

Increased Politicization

This session of the Committee was decidedly more political than previous sessions and it was clear to all in attendance that lobbying and bargaining played a significant role in determining which sites were inscribed on the list. This increasingly overtly political decision making exhibited by the Committee is, according to a number of Committee members and some Observers, threatening to seriously undermine the credibility of the Convention. The United States has already approached some like-minded States Parties to discuss working together to collectively call attention to this issue.

The trend of the Committee towards "grade inflation" - almost always giving sites a more favorable decision than that recommended by the Advisory Bodies - continued. More so than in the past, the Committee overruled the recommendations of the advisory bodies, and either inscribed sites recommended for referral, or referred sites recommended for deferral. The At Turaif District in ad-Dir'iyah, Saudi Arabia, the Imperial Citadel of Thang Long in Viet Nam, the Sao Francisco Square in Sao Cristovao, Brazil, Danxia Mountain in China, and the Phoenix Islands of Kiribati, all of which had been recommended for deferral, were inscribed. Moving sites two steps up, from deferral to inscription, appears to be unprecedented in the Committee's history.

The Committee session was once again plagued by poor time management, meaning that many important issues were barely discussed, decided with insufficient discussion, or postponed until a later date.

Final Reception for the 2010 Class of US/ICOMOS International Interns

The 2010 class of the US/ICOMOS International Exchange Program reconvened in Washington in mid-August for the final program of the summer internships and orientation for the fall interns. On Wednesday, the group met in the US/ICOMOS conference room to prepare their presentations and share their experiences with the entire group. A reception was then held in their honor that evening at the National Trust for Historic Preservation. On Thursday, the group met with Guido Licciardi for a discussion of the World Bank's heritage development portfolio and a tour of the World Bank headquarters building. Thursday evening, the group met for refreshments at Bar Dupont before heading off to their closing dinner in Washington.

Congratulations to the 2010 class of US/ICOMOS International Interns! Their presentations will be posted on the US/ICOMOS website in the coming weeks.

Tuesday, November 9, 2010, Cosmos Club, Washington, DC

US/ICOMOS is pleased to announce that the World Monuments Fund has been selected to receive the 2010 US/ICOMOS Ann Webster Smith Award for International Heritage Achievement. The award will be presented at the 2010 Ann Webster Smith Award Gala, to be held the evening of Tuesday, November 9, at the Cosmos Club in Washington, DC. Details on tickets for the event will be announced soon.

The Ann Webster Smith Award honors an American individual, group of persons or institution, in the public or private sector, for extraordinary and sustained achievement in perpetuating Ann Webster Smith's quest to make the United States a respected partner and trustworthy pillar to support the conservation of cultural heritage in all parts of the world.

The award nomination states in part: "The World Monuments Fund, during its forty-five year history, has effectively harnessed American corporate and individual philanthropy to rescue and protect heritage sites that are treasured by the people of more than ninety countries - on all continents. The World Monuments Fund is an exemplary global citizen."

Past recipients of the Ann Webster Smith Award are Russell E. Train (2009) and Lisa Ackerman (2008).

US/ICOMOS Online and through Social Media

As part of ongoing efforts to increase participation and involvement of our members, ICOMOS and US/COMOS are utilizing new social media tools and online technologies. Through Facebook, LinkedIn, and e-news distribution, US/ICOMOS members can now network in a variety of ways. Thanks to Ed Fitzgerald and James Cocks (both former US/ICOMOS interns) for getting the initial groups up and running.

Third International Conference on Travelers' Philanthropy

San Jose and Monteverde, Costa Rica

July 20 - 23, 2011

Contact: David Krantz

Phone: +1 202-347-9203 x.417

Email: dkrantz@responsibletravel.org

Join the Center for Responsible Travel and the Monteverde Institute for the Third International Travelers' Philanthropy Conference, which will take place in San Jose and Monteverde, Costa Rica, July 20 - 23, 2011. The conference will open in San Jose on Wednesday, July 20th and then continue, Thursday, July 21 - Saturday, July 23, with plenary sessions, workshops & site visits in the cloud forest destination of Monteverde.

Conference registration, other details, and updates are posted at www.travelersphilanthropy.org/conference

Travelers' philanthropy is a relatively new concept, but it is rapidly growing into a worldwide movement and becoming part of the definition of responsible travel. At its core, travelers' philanthropy is about tourism businesses and travelers 'giving back' to tourism destinations by providing financial support, volunteer expertise, and material contributions to local projects and community initiatives. CREST hosted previous International Travelers' Philanthropy Conferences at Stanford University, California, USA in 2004 and in Arusha, Tanzania in 2008.

They are seeking co-sponsors for the 2011 Costa Rica Conference. Please contact David Krantz at 202.347.9203 ext 417 and dkrantz@responsibletravel.org for sponsorship details.

Call for Papers - Future Anterior "Preservation and Globalization"

Deadline for submission: September 15, 2010.

Future Anterior approaches the field of historic preservation from a position of critical inquiry. A comparatively recent field of professional study, preservation often escapes direct academic challenges of its motives, goals, forms of practice and results. Future Anterior seeks contributions that ask these difficult questions from philosophical, theoretical, and practical perspectives. Articles on all topics relevant to historic preservation are accepted on a rolling basis.
